DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over USP 5298093 to Okamoto (PTO-1449) in view of SU 1148893, USP 4735771 to Corwin, or WO01057280.

Okamoto discloses the features including duplex stainless steel composition (col. 2, lines 42-55), PREW value (col. 2, lines 57-61), ferritic and austenitic phases volume ratio (col. 8, lines 5-7). The difference between the reference(s) and the claims are as follows: Ba alloying element and solubility. However, SU 1148893 (abstract), Corwin (paragraph between col. 1-2, and col. 4, lines 19-28), or WO01057280 (paragraph bridging pages 3-4 and page 5, lines 10-30) discloses Ba among other oxide forming elements in the same field of endeavor or the analogous metallurgical art for improving machinability and oxide forming. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of the cited references at the time the invention was made to provide Okamoto with Ba as taught by SU 1148893, Corwin, or WO01057280 because the set forth benefits and function entail the motivation of one skilled in the art to make a claimed compound, in the expectation that compounds similar in structure will have similar properties. It has been held that combining known ingredient having known functions, to provide a composition having the additive effect of each of the known functions is within realm of performance of ordinary skill artisan. In re Castner, 186 USPQ 213 (217). The use of conventional materials to perform their known functions in a conventional process is obvious. In re Raner, 134 USPQ 343 (CCPA 1962).

With respect to the solubility as recited in instant claims 5-7, that solubility is material property which would have been inherently possessed by the material of cited references. With respect to instant claim 13, that since the composition and duplex phases ratio of instant claimed are overlapped by alloy steel of Okamoto. The value as set forth in claim 13 would have been overlapped. Therefore, the burden is on the applicant to prove that the product of the prior art does not necessarily or inherently possess characteristics attributed to the claimed product.

In re Best, 195 USPQ, 430 and MPEP § 2112.01.

"Where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established, In re Best,

Art Unit: 1742

195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). 'When the PTO shows a sound basis for believing that the products of the applicant and the prior art are the same, the applicant has the burden of showing that they are not.' In re Spada, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990). Therefore, the prima facie case can be rebutted by evidence showing that the prior art products do not necessarily possess the characteristics of the claimed product. In re Best, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977)."

Conclusion

The above rejection relies on the reference(s) for all the teachings expressed in the text(s) of the references and/or one of ordinary skill in the metallurgical art would have reasonably understood or implied from the text(s) of the reference(s). To emphasize certain aspect(s) of the prior art, only specific portion(s) of the text(s) have been pointed out. Each reference as a whole should be reviewed in responding to the rejection, since other sections of the same reference and/or various combination of the cited references may be relied on in future rejection(s) in view of amendment(s).

All recited limitations in the instant claims have been met by the rejections as set forth above.

Applicant is reminded that when amendment and/or revision is required, applicant should therefore specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See 37 C.F.R. § 1.121; 37 C.F.R. Part §41.37 (c)(1)(v); MPEP §714.02; and MPEP §2411.01(B).
